

VERGILIAN BIBLIOGRAPHY 2023–2024

Shirley Werner

This 2023–2024 compilation is indebted to the resources of the William R. Perkins Library, Duke University; to those of l'Année philologique; and to the further bibliographies mentioned below.

FURTHER BIBLIOGRAPHY

L'Année philologique: Bibliographie critique et analytique de l'antiquité gréco-latine. 2023. Vol. 94. Turnhout. [In “Première partie: auteurs et textes,” see, besides P. Vergilius Maro: Aetna, Catalepton, Centones, Ciris, Claudius Donatus, Copa, Culex, Dirae, Donatus Grammaticus, Lydia, Moretum, Proba, Seruius, Vergiliana Appendix, Vitae Vergilii. The online version of this bibliography, available through Brepols to subscribers, is updated quarterly and includes items published up through the previous calendar year.]

Gnomon: Kritische Zeitschrift für die gesamte klassische Altertumswissenschaft. 2024. Vol. 96. Munich. [Contains a “Bibliographische Beilage.” The bibliography is also freely available online.]

International Bibliography of Humanism and the Renaissance. Turnhout. [The International Bibliography of Humanism and the Renaissance (IBHR) is published online by Brepols. Records from the IBHR, the International Medieval Bibliography, and the Bibliographie de civilisation médiévale are accessible in one search through subscribing institutions.]

Medioevo Latino: Bollettino bibliografico della cultura europea da Boezio a Erasmo (secoli VI–XV). 2023. Vol. 44. Florence. [Includes items of interest for Vergilian studies under the section “Fortleben.”]

Werner, Shirley. 2023. “Vergilian Bibliography 2022–2023.” Vergilius 69: 131–57.

COMPANIONS, COLLECTIONS, AND GENERAL STUDIES

- Asimakopoulos, Tilemachos, Theodora Pylarinou-Markantonatou, Maria Sklaventi, Andreas Kotopoulos, Maria Mandilara, Angeliki Chaikali, and Evgenia Karveli, eds. 2022. Η σύγχρονη έρευνα στις κλασικές σπουδές: Πρακτικά του 3ου συνεδρίου μεταπτυχιακών φοιτητών κλασικής ειδίκευσης. Patra.
- Bers, Victor, David Elmer, Douglas Frame, and Leonard Muellner, eds. Donum natalicium digitaliter confectum Gregorio Nagy Septuagenario a discipulis collegis familiaribus oblatum. Washington, DC.
- Dainotti, Paolo, Alexandre Pinheiro Hasegawa, and Stephen Harrison, eds. 2024. Style in Latin Poetry. Trends in Classics. Supplementary Volumes 159. Berlin.
- Fernandelli, Marco. 2022. “Cothurnatus Maro: The Myth of Vergil As Tragic Poet, from Antiquity to the ‘Age of Anxiety’ (and Beyond).” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 321–59.
- Gawley, James. 2024. Allusions across the Language Barrier: The Poetic Techniques of Voltaire and Vergil. Cultures et Pratiques Savantes du Numérique 3. Paris.
- Gellar-Goad, T. H. M., and Christopher B. Polt, eds. 2024. Didactic Literature in the Roman World. Routledge Monographs in Classical Studies. Abingdon.
- Gioseffi, Massimo, ed. 2010. Usò, riusò e abuso dei testi classici. Colloquium. Milan.
- Kayachev, Boris, ed. 2021. Poems without Poets: Approaches to Anonymous Ancient Poetry. Cambridge Philological Society. Supplementary Volume 43. Oxford.
- Mac Góráin, Fiachra. 2009. “Microcosm and the Virgilian persona.” Camenae 7: n.p.
- Pimentel, Maria Cristina, Ana Maria Lóio, Nuno Simões Rodrigues, and Rodrigo Furtado, eds. 2022. Augustan Papers: New Approaches to the Age of Augustus on the Bimillennium of His Death. 2 vols. Spudasmata 184.1–2. Hildesheim.
- Ruden, Sarah. 2023. Vergil: The Poet’s Life. Ancient Lives. New Haven.
- Schliephake, Christopher, ed. 2017. Ecocriticism, Ecology, and the Cultures of Antiquity. Ecocritical Theory and Practice. Lanham.
- Tischer, Ute, Ursula Gärtner, and Alexandra Forst, eds. Vt pictura poeta: Author Images and the Reading of Ancient Literature. Biblioteca del Giornale Italiano di Filologia 29. Turnhout.
- , Thomas Kuhn-Treichel, and Stefano Poletti, eds. 2023. Sicut commentatores loquuntur = Authorship and Commentaries on Poetry

= Autorproblematik und antike Dichterexegese. Studi e Testi Tardoantichi 21. Turnhout.

Unceta Gómez, Luis, and Carmen González Vázquez, eds. 2021. Amice benigneque honorem nostrum habes: Estudios lingüísticos en homenaje al profesor Benjamín García-Hernández. Madrid.

Although Vergil's Aeneid contains no autobiographical references, Mac Góráin argues that an overview of the movement from the Eclogues to the Aeneid shows that Vergil creates a coherent and teleological image of his œuvre that represents him as a poet par excellence and a universal author.

TRANSLATIONS

Aguiar, Saulo Santana. 2022. "Uma proposta de tradução da Écloga IV, de Virgílio, em hexâmetros portugueses." Rónai: Revista de Estudos Clássicos e Tradutórios 10: 50–66.

Belle, Marie-Alice. 2022. "On the Idea of Failure in Vergilian Translation." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 294–311.

Braund, Susanna. 2022a. "Vergil 'Disrobed': John Vicars' 'Home-Spun English Gray-Coat Plain' Aeneid (1632)." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 312–35.

—. 2024. Translating Virgil: A Cultural History of the Western Tradition from the Eleventh Century to the Present. Classics after Antiquity. Cambridge, UK.

—, and Zara Torlone, eds. 2022b. Failures in Vergilian Translation. Oxford.

Cox, Fiona. 2022. "The Silent Reception of Kristina Chew's Georgics." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 424–34.

Cozzolino, Andrea. 2021. "Me vero primum dulces ante omnia Musae ... accipiant: Quasimodo traduce Verg. Georg. 2, 475–540." In Templa serena: Studi in onore di Enrico Flores, edited by Mariantonietta Paladini, 155–62. Naples.

Espluga i Corbalán, Xavier. 2022. "Els treballs de la vinya a les traduccions catalanes de les Geòrgiques. 2." Ítaca: Quaderns Catalans de Cultura Clàssica 38: 83–109.

Estefanía, Dulce. 2023. Eneida. Extensión. Bahía Blanca.

Öyken, Ekin. 2022. "The Early Oblivion of the First Aeneid in Turkish: Aiming at a Moving Target." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 399–422.

Papaioannou, Sophia. 2022. "Mataioponēmata: The Politics of Failure in Translating the Aeneid in Eighteenth- and Nineteenth-Century Greece." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 336–57.

- Sayre, Laura. 2017. "How / to Make Fields Fertile: Ecocritical Lessons from the History of Virgil's Georgics in Translation." In Schliephake, 175–95.
- Scafoglio, Giampiero. 2022. "Fascism and the Classics: Ideological Manipulation and Targeted Translations of the Aeneid." Classical Receptions Journal 14: 379–98.
- Wells, James Bradley. 2022. Eclogues and Georgics. Wisconsin Studies in Classics. Madison.

Belle focuses on early modern English translations of the Aeneid. Braund 2022a discusses the first complete translation of the Aeneid by an Englishman, the poet, Puritan, and parliamentarian John Vicars (1582–1652; trans. 1632), and attributes the "patent early hostility" towards his translation to dislike for his humble origins, alongside his unfashionable religious and political views. Braund 2022b (excerpted here) was published as a monographic issue of Classical Receptions Journal 2022 14 (3). This issue examined reasons for the failure of even the most accomplished translators to bring Vergil's masterpieces to the reading public in their own cultures. Cox observes that, although Kristina Chew's 2002 translation of the Georgics has failed to attract the recognition of other contemporary female-authored translations, it constitutes a significant moment for Vergilian reception, not least because it is produced by somebody who is on the outside from so many perspectives as an American woman of Chinese descent. Cazzolino writes about the Georgics translation into Italian by the poet Salvatore Quasimodo (1901–68). Espluga i Corbalán discusses the Catalan translations of the Georgics by Miquel Dolç i Dolç (1912–94). Estefanía offers a revision of her 1988 translation of the Aeneid into Spanish. Öyken discusses the first complete translation of the Aeneid into Turkish, published in 1935–36 during the first decades of the Turkish Republic. The translator, Ahmed Reşid (1870–1955), was an intellectual and statesman who did not know Latin but used an intermediary French translation as his source. All translations of the Aeneid published in Greece during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries were literary failures, Papaioannou writes, because they were written in an archaizing Greek fashioned as a compromise between classical Greek and the vernacular of the time and were never intended to be read independently from the original Latin. Scafoglio observes that the Aeneid was probably the most misinterpreted poem in Italy during the Fascist period: with the exception of the 1921 translation by Giuseppe Albini (1863–1933), all Italian translations from 1926 through 1930 are enslaved to their political purpose and betray the deep and complex message of the poem. Wells offers a new English translation of the Eclogues and Georgics.

APPENDIX VERGILIANA

- Campodonico, Nicolò. 2022. “Before (Pseudo-) Virgil: Anonymity, Pseudepigraphy, and Authorship in Catalepton.” Sileno: Rivista Semestrale di Studi Classici e Cristiani 48: 23–38.
- De Vivo, Arturo. 2022. “Edizioni e critica del testo del testo dell’Appendix Vergiliana nella seconda metà del Novecento.” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 187–99.
- Franklinos, T. E. 2021. “Elegiacs on Octavius (and) Musa: Exploring Catalepton 4 and 11.” In Kayachev, 67–84.
- Gioseffi, Massimo. 2022. “Rileggendo la Ciris.” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 68–87.
- Kayachev, Boris. 2021. “Conjectural Emendation in the Appendix Vergiliana: The Case of the Moretum.” In Kayachev, 187–202.
- . 2022a. “Emendations in the Dirae and the Lydia.” Classical Quarterly 72: 703–18.
- . 2022b. “Non-discontinuous Adjective-Noun Phrases in Latin Poetry: Preliminary Observations.” Journal of Latin Linguistics 21: 1–22.
- Olszaniec, Włodzimierz. 2022. “Ciris 208: excubias † iactabat †.” Latomus: Revue d’Études Latines 81: 656–57.
- . 2023. “A Non-trivial Worry and Its Consequences: Ciris 227.” Mnemosyne: A Journal of Classical Studies 76: 350–52.
- Stok, Fabio. 2022. “Origini dell’Appendix Vergiliana.” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 49–67.
- Trevizam, Matheus. 2020. “Polifonia em Aetna, poema didático romano.” Phoënix 26: 106–21.

Franklinos considers the possibility that Cat. 4 and 11 are addressed to the historian Octavius Musa, an analysis that would make it possible to read the work as an artistic whole rather than as a random assemblage of loose pieces or a collection of forgeries. Gioseffi argues that the nature of the Ciris as an epyllion emerges from consideration of its narrative structures and compositional technique and not from an investigation of its limited stylistic similarities with other authors. Kayachev 2022b observes that, because discontinuous adjective-noun phrases are frequent in classical Latin poetry, non-discontinuous combinations should be considered an exception. The common use of such phrases in the Ciris is attributable to semantic or syntactic constraints. Olszaniec 2022 proposes emending the corrupt iactabat at Ciris 208 to iam agitauerant, following the idiom excubias agitare attested at Apuleius, Met. 9.3. Olszaniec 2023 argues against the manuscript reading faceret at Ciris 227, suggesting that correction to fieri solves the syntactical problems and finds an analogy in Lucretius. Trevizam comments on the uneven philosophical texture of the Aetna.

ECLOGUES: GENERAL

- Cucchiarelli, Andrea. 2023. A Commentary on Virgil's "Eclogues." Oxford.
- Gagliardi, Paola. 2021. "Il tema dell'eco nelle Bucoliche di Virgilio." Pan: Rivista di Filologia Latina 10: 53–68.
- Papangelis, Theodoros D. 2023. "'The Song Doth Protest Too Much, Methinks': Virgil's Post-oral Pastoralities." In Έτος ήλθε περιπλομένων ενιαυτών εκατοστών: Τιμητικός τόμος για τον καθηγητή-Ακαδημαϊκό Ν. Χ. Κονομή, edited by Aimilios Dim. Mavroudis and Antonios V. Regkakos, 291–308. Athens.

Cucchiarelli's commentary is an updated and augmented translation into English of his Italian commentary Le Bucoliche (Lingue e Letterature Carocci, 141. Rome, 2012). Papangelis aims to demonstrate the limits of a fictional orality and the role of poetic memory in passages from Ecl. 3, 9, and 10.

ECLOGUES: INDIVIDUAL POEMS

- Hanashiro, Deusa Mitiko de Gouvêa, and Érico Nogueira. 2022. "Um breve estudo sobre o prólogo da Écloga X de Virgílio." Rónai: Revista de Estudos Clássicos e Tradutórios 10: 2–25.
- Landolfi, Luciano. 2022. "I rustica munera di Coridone (a margine di Verg., Ecl. 2, 45–55)." La Parola del Passato: Rivista di Studi Antichi 77: 67–72.
- Nicastri, Luciano. 2024. Il bambino che non nacque: Studio della IV Ecloga di Virgilio. Edited by Giovanni Casadio. Scriba Sapiente 4. Salerno.
- Tar, Ibolya. 2023. "Vergils Prophetie in den Eklogen." In Prophetie und Parusie in der griechisch-römischen Antike, edited by Raban Von Haeling and Meinolf Vielberg, 207–28. Studien zur Geschichte und Kultur des Altertums 29. Paderborn.
- Yona, Sergio. 2022. "Unwalled City: The Herdsmen's Plight in Eclogues 1." Latomus: Revue d'Études Latines 81: 627–50.

Hanashiro and Nogueira analyze the prologue of Ecl. 10. Landolfi discusses the intertextual references in Ecl. 2 to Greek poetry and to scientific literature. Tar discusses Ecl. 4.

GEORGICS: GENERAL

- Devecka, Martin. 2024. “The Greatest Generation: Golden Age, Spontaneous Generation, and Queer Kinship in Vergil’s Georgics.” In The Routledge Handbook of Classics and Queer Theory, edited by Ella Haselswerdt, Sara H. Lindheim, and Kirk Ormand, 287–302. London.
- Keith, Alison M. 2024. “Epicurean Codas in Vergil’s Georgics.” In Gellar-Goad and Polt, 23–46.
- Nelis, Damien. 2016. “Emotion in Vergil’s Georgics: Farming and the Politics of Hope.” In Hope, Joy, and Affection in the Classical World, edited by Ruth R. Caston and Robert A. Kaster, 45–74. Emotions of the Past. Oxford.
- Nelis, Damien P. 2024. “Names and Places in Vergil’s Georgics.” In Dainotti, Pinheiro Hasegawa, and Harrison, 131–47.
- Nuzzo, Gianfranco, and Mario Lentano. 2023. Georgiche. Classici Greci Latini. Santarcangelo di Romagna.
- Thibodeau, Philip. 2022. “Hesiod, Virgil and the Ambitions of Georgic.” In A History of English Georgic Writing, edited by Paddy Bullard, 39–56. Cambridge, UK.

Nelis 2024 argues that clusters of place names in the Georgics demonstrate the poem’s learning and didactic character as well as its spatial dimension. Nuzzo offers a new Italian translation of and commentary on the Georgics, with an introductory essay by Lentano.

GEORGICS: INDIVIDUAL POEMS

- Lattanzi, Luca. 2019. “Nota a Verg. Georg. 4, 511–513.” Pan: Rivista di Filologia Latina 8: 209–12.
- Trevizam, Matheus. 2023. “Mito, animalização e antropomorfização das plantas: Continuidade poética na literatura agrária latina.” Classica: Revista Brasileira de Estudos Clássicos 36: n.p.

Lattanzi analyzes the figure of the durus arator. Trevizam comments on the use of myth and the attribution of human traits to plants in Vergil, Georg. 2; Columella, De re rustica 10; and Palladius Rutilius, Opus agriculturae 15.

AENEID: GENERAL

- Ames, Cecilia. 2021. "The Roman Peasantry in Virgil's Aeneid." Phoînix 27: 102–14.
- Casali, Sergio. 2023. Virgilio: Guida all'Eneide. Bussole. Rome.
- Dainotti, Paolo. 2022. "Neque infula textit: Su un motivo patetico dell'Eneide." Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 28–48.
- De Villiers, Annemarie. 2022. "When Horses Weep: Animal Emotions and Human Suffering in the Aeneid." In Ancient Philosophy and Early Christianity: Studies in Honor of Johan C. Thom, edited by Gideon R. Kotzé and Philip R. Bosman, 201–16. Supplements to Novum Testamentum 188. Leiden.
- Farron, Steven. 2023. "Pietas schmietas: The Danger of Overinterpreting." Acta Classica 66: 39–47.
- Gagliardi, Paola. 2022. "I duelli di Enea contro Mezenzio e Turno." Sileno: Rivista Semestrale di Studi Classici e Cristiani 48: 135–49.
- McCallum, Sarah. 2023. Elegiac Love and Death in Vergil's "Aeneid". Oxford.
- Muellner, Leonard. 2012. "A Poetic Etymology of pietas in the Aeneid." In Bers et al., n.p.
- Sariaydin, Berkan. 2022. "Arbeit an der Exorbitanz: Heldentum und Erinnerung in Vergils Aeneis." In Heroen–Helden: Eine Geschichte der literarischen Exorbitanz von der Antike bis zur Gegenwart, edited by Christoph Petersen and Markus May, 71–92. Göttingen.
- Teixeira, Cláudia. 2019. "Imaginário instituído, imaginário instituinte e identidade: Aspetos da transição cultural na Eneida de Virgílio." Humanitas: Revista do Instituto de Estudos Clássicos. Coimbra 74: 67–71.
- Tomažinčič, Špela. 2023. "My Angry Muse: The Metapoetic Interplay between Juno and Vergil." American Journal of Philology 144: 73–107.
- Wimperis, Tedd A. 2024. Constructing Communities in Vergil's "Aeneid": Cultural Memory, Identity, and Ideology. Ann Arbor.
- Zanker, Andreas T., and Graham Zanker. 2023. "Spatial Metaphors for Fate in the Aeneid." Vergilius 69: 3–36.

Dainotti discusses the Aeneid's recurrent theme of the violation or killing of religious figures, such as priests and augurs, as a pathetic technique. De Villiers discusses Aen. 10.844–68, 11.59–92, and 12.81–619, three episodes depicting animal emotions as a commentary on the human condition. Farron puts forth the possibility that scholars overinterpret the care that ancient Greek and Roman authors applied to the exact meanings of the terms they used. In the case of pious Aeneas, heros, and pietas in the Aeneid and ἀμαρτία in Aristotle, Po. 1453a we seek greater precision and clarity than Vergil and Aristotle intended. Muellner offers a different perspective on Vergil's pietas, arguing that Vergil systematically re-semanticized fundamental terms in his redeployment and translation of the archaic Greek poetic language of the Iliad. On the pietas of individual characters, see the articles by Agelerakis and Formicola listed in this bibliography under "Characters." McCallum offers a new perspective on Vergil's engagement with amatory and funerary elegy in the Aeneid. Teixeira discusses the institutions of Roman society as imagined in Aen. 6 and 8 to illuminate how Vergil defines the imaginary of the Augustan political and cultural order in a time of transition. Tomažinčič takes the interpretation offered by Joseph Farrell in Juno's Aeneid (Princeton, 2020)—which sees Vergil's epic as a contest between the poet and the character Juno to decide which Homeric epic the Aeneid will most resemble—a step further by arguing that the relationship between the poet and Juno also evokes the elegiac discourse between the lover and his dura puella.

AENEID: INDIVIDUAL BOOKS I–VI

- Barchiesi, Alessandro. 2021. "A Night in Cyprus (Verg. Aen. 1.657–697)." In Φαίδιμος Έκτωρ: Studi in onore di Willy Cingano per il suo 70° compleanno, edited by Enrico Emanuele Prodi and Stefano Vecchiato, 447–55. Antichistica 31. Venezia.
- Biddau, Federico. 2022. "Testo e interpretazione di Virgilio, Aen. III, 684–686." Latomus: Revue d'Études Latines 81: 508–30.
- Cucchiarelli, Andrea. 2016. "Archeologia epica della nave-città (in margine a Virgilio, Aen. 5, 119)." Rationes Rerum: Rivista di Filologia e Storia 7: 133–84.
- Dainotti, Paolo. 2023. "Omnia tuta timens (Virgil, Aeneid 4.298): Allusion and Ambiguity." Classical Quarterly 73: 933–37.
- Laterza, Giovanna. 2021. "Eschatological Temporalities in Vergil's Elysium." In Eschatology in Antiquity: Forms and Functions, edited by Hilary Marlow, Karla Pollmann, and Helen Van Noorden, 294–306. Rewriting Antiquity. London.
- Love, Rachel Lilley. 2023. "Aeneas's Trousseau: Gender(ed) Exchange in Aeneid 1." TAPA 153: 431–58.
- Manchón Gómez, Raúl. 2017. "El caballo de Troya." In En Grecia y Roma. 6, Más gentes y más cosas, edited by Andrés Pociña Pérez and Jesús María García González, 149–60. Granada.
- Mangini, Miguel Ângelo Andriolo. 2022. "A tragédia de Dido e sua função na Eneida." Rónai: Revista de Estudos Clássicos e Tradutórios 10: 54–72.

- Shumilin, Mikhail. 2021. “The Helen Episode in Aeneid 2: Between Authorial Poetry and Anonymity.” In Kayachev, 136–51.
- Sousa, F. Edi de Oliveira. 2007. “L’épisode d’Iopas (Enéide, I, 740–746).” Camenae 1: n.p.
- Stahl, Hans-Peter. 2022. “Vergil Clearing Emperor Augustus’ Access to the Kingship of Troy: Aeneid, Books II and III.” Würzburger Jahrbücher für die Altertumswissenschaft 46: 135–87.
- Starnone, Viola. 2020. “Nessuno guarda Elissa”: Due passi del primo libro dell’Eneide e il disagio degli interpreti. Biblioteca di Materiali e Discussioni per l’Analisi dei Testi Classici 25. Pisa.
- . 2022. “L’arte meravigliosa di silentio e di suppositione’: Considerazioni sulla metamorfosi in Virgilio.” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 360–75.
- Vlachos, Evangelos. 2021. “Το τρωικό παρελθόν ως τέχνη στην ‘ἔκφραση’ του ναού της Καρχηδόνας (A. 1, 449–493).” In 2ο συνέδριο μεταπτυχιακών φοιτητών και υποψηφίων διδασκόντων κλασικής φιλολογίας ΑΠΘ: Λόγοι περί ετερότητας: όψεις του “άλλου” στην αρχαία ελληνική και λατινική γραμματεία, edited by Dimitra Karamitsou, 294–307. Thessaloniki.
- . 2022. “Aspera mitescent saecula: η διάθλαση της Αυγούστειας ιδεολογίας στην προφητεία του Δία (A. 1, 286–296).” In Πρακτικά 10ου συνεδρίου μεταπτυχιακών φοιτητών και υποψηφίων διδασκόντων τμήματος φιλολογίας ΕΚΠΑ: Κλασική φιλολογία, edited by Athanasios Papanikolaou, 25–38. Athens.

Laterza discusses the conflicting temporal settings in Elysium in Aen. 6. Love observes that Dido’s gifts to the shipwrecked Trojans in Aen. 1 resemble suitors’ gifts (ἔδνα) recorded in the Hesiodic Catalogue of Women. Reading Dido against a Hesiodic rather than Homeric model casts her as a suitor of Aeneas, which lends coloring to Aeneas’s reciprocating gifts as items associated with the bridal trousseau. Manchón Gómez discusses the literary development of the Trojan Horse myth from archaic Greek literature to late antiquity, with special focus on Aen. 2, the best known version. Starnone 2020 discusses the meeting of Aeneas and Venus at Aen. 1.314–417 and Dido’s first appearance at 1.494–504. Starnone 2022 discusses the metamorphosis of Eros into Ascanius at Aen. 1.683–90.

AENEID: INDIVIDUAL BOOKS VII–XII

- Brescia, Graziana. 2023. “Sceleratus Catiline: From Republican History to Virgil’s Tartarus (Aen. 8, 666–670).” Bollettino di Studi Latini: Periodico Semestrale d’Informazione Bibliografica 53: 522–32.
- Cairo, María Emilia. 2023. “Virtus femenina e identidad romana en el símil de Eneida 8.407–415.” Cuadernos de Filología Clásica: Estudios Latinos 43: 85–101.
- Casali, Sergio. 2023. “A Misunderstood Passage and an Unnecessary Deletion in Aeneid 11.399–409.” Classical Philology 118: 114–25.
- Fernandelli, Marco. 2010. “‘Inviolable Voice’: Studio su quattro poeti dotti (Virgilio, Milton, Keats, Th.S. Eliot).” In Gioseffi, 267–301.
- . 2019. “Il commento inedito di Mario Martina al libro VIII dell’Eneide.” Pan: Rivista di Filologia Latina 8: 7–27.
- Ripoll, François. 2022. “La catabase d’Énée au chant VIII de l’Énéide.” Latomus: Revue d’Études Latines 81: 169–87.
- Torzi, Ilaria. 2022. “Il concilio degli dèi (Verg. Aen. 10.1–117), fra ars rhetorica e (im)politeness.” Lexis: Poetica, Retorica e Comunicazione nella Tradizione Classica 40: 179–210.

Casali argues against the commonly accepted deletion of Aen. 11.404 and offers a new interpretation of Turnus’s words. Fernandelli 2010 discusses Aen. 7.10–20 and its reception in John Milton (1608–74), John Keats (1796–1821), and T. S. Eliot (1888–1965). Fernandelli 2019 announces a plan to publish the commentary on Aen. 8 by Mario Martina (1948–98), which was completed in 1988 and was discovered among his papers after his death. Its characteristics and usefulness for university teaching are outlined.

CHARACTERS

- Agelarakis, Anagnostis. 2023. “In Defence of the Aeneid Physician Iapyx Iasides in Honour and pietas.” Εὐλκμένη: Μελέτες στην Κλασική Αρχαιολογία, την Επιγραφική, τη Νομισματική και την Παπυρολογία 24: 43–55.
- Cianciosi, Stefano. 2023. “Aeneas’ Betrayal of Troy and the Aeneid.” Latomus: Revue d’Études Latines 82: 16–30.
- Díaz López, Laura. 2022. “Dido y la impotentia muliebris: La subversión del ideal de matrona en la Eneida de Virgilio.” Studia Historica: Historia Antigua 40: 179–206.
- Formicola, Crescenzo. 2023. “Pietas e impietas: Le persone e le azioni; sovrapposizioni semantiche nel dramma della Didone virgiliana.” Vichiana: Rassegna Internazionale di Studi Filologici e Storici 60: 11–25.

- Fratantuono, Lee. 2022a. "The Virgilian Metamorphosis of Homer's Artemis." Athenaeum: Studi di Letteratura e Storia dell'Antichità 110: 427–41.
- . 2022b. "Aristophanes' Lysistrata and Virgil's Camilla." Myrtia: Revista de Filología Clásica 37: 127–37.
- Gagliardi, Paola. 2022. "Due sorelle, due voci, due drammi: I lamenti di Anna e Giuturna nell'Eneide." Commentaria Classica: Studi di Filologia Greca e Latina 9: 9–35.
- Gay, Marco. 2022. "Fato profugus: Aeneas the Refugee; an Italian Debate." In Classical Controversies: Reception of Graeco-Roman Antiquity in the Twenty-First Century, edited by Kim Beerden and Timo Epping, 123–38. Leiden.
- Martín Guerra, Sílvia. 2023. "Insanae matronae: Les dones troianes a l'Eneida de Virgili (5.604-679)." Anuari de Filologia: Antiqua et Mediaevalia 13: 39–56.
- Wilson, Laurie. 2023. "Mediator of the Divine: The Sibyl's Embodied and Authoritative Female Voice." Vergilius 69: 107–29.

Agelarakis focuses on the professional behavior of Iapyx in Aen. 12 and his medical knowledge, suggesting that his cure of Aeneas reveals his pietas and his skill. Cianciosi argues that passages seeming to hint at the myth of treacherous Aeneas in the Aeneid can be read in ways that dispense with such an allusion. Formicola analyzes Aen. 1.298 and 4.546 to show how the meanings attributed by Aeneas and Dido to the semantic fields of pietas and impietas differ radically from each other. Fratantuono 2022a notes that, in its avian imagery, the depiction of Camilla in Aen. 11 is indebted to Homer's representation of Artemis in Il. 21; in 2022b he suggests that Camilla's elusive and enigmatic nature is based on Aristophanes's Lysistrata, particularly with regard to the epic's presentation of the problem of civil war and the status of women in Roman public life.

PHILOSOPHY AND RELIGION

- Fratantuono, Lee. 2022. "Vestaque mater: Divinidades domésticas en Virgilio." Auster: Revista del Centro de Estudios 27: 9–27.
- Heslin, Peter. 2024. "Fortunatus et ille: Vergil's Ironic Epicureanism." In Gellar-Goad and Polt, 47–70.
- Landolfi, Luciano. 2020. "Pan deus Arcadiae (Verg. Ecl. 10, 26): Λ'εὔρημα, ἰάτιον (tra Virgilio bucolico e Ovidio epico)." Pan: Rivista di Filologia Latina 9: 31–52.

- Perotti, Pier Angelo. 2021. “Ambiguità dell’amore in Virgilio.” Revista de Estudios Clásicos 51: 389–411.
- Puglia, Enzo. 2023. “Filodemo e la cerchia virgiliana a colloquio sui calunniatori (PHerc. Paris. 2, col. Z).” Philosophical Papyri: A Journal of Ancient Philosophy and the Papyrological Tradition 1: 131–36.
- Rivoltella, Massimo. 2023. “Velare comas (Aen. III 405): Virgilio e il dibattito antico su origine e significato della velazione maschile nella religione romana.” Aevum Antiquum 23: 259–81.
- Xinyue, Bobby. 2022. Politics and Divinization in Augustan Poetry. Oxford.
- Xinyue’s study includes discussion of Vergil’s Eclogues and Horace’s Odes 4, among other works.

HISTORY, MATERIAL CULTURE, AND LANDSCAPE

- Baratta, Giulia. 2022. “La suppellettile lignea nelle Bucoliche di Virgilio: Aspetti di cultura materiale.” Latomus: Revue d’Études Latines 81: 729–46.
- Fletcher, K. F. B., and Sanjaya Thakur. 2022–2023. “Allusions to Livia and her gentes in Vergil’s Aeneid.” Classical World 116: 381–98.
- González Tobar, Iván, Antònia Soler i Nicolau, and Piero Berni Millet. 2023. “Las Geórgicas de Virgilio in figlinis: A propósito de un grafito ante cocturam sobre un ánfora olearia bética.” Journal of Roman Archaeology 36: 1–22.

Baretta compares the vocabulary of wooden objects mentioned by Vergil with archaeological documentation of musical instruments, wicker containers, wooden dishes, agricultural tools, writing supports, and statues. González Tábor presents an inscription on a Baetican olive-oil amphora that may be identified as a fragment of Georg. 1.7–8, divided into five lines made up of groups of two or three words. An analysis is offered of the context in which the amphora was made, its authorship, and its significance for knowing the degree of literacy of Roman rural society in the Guadalquivir valley in the late second or early third century AD. The inscription is of exceptional interest for archaeologists, epigraphists, and philologists of vulgar Latin.

STYLE, LANGUAGE, AND METER

- Casali, Sergio. 2024. “Reconsidering Virgil’s hysteron proteron.” In Dainotti, Pinheiro Hasegawa, and Harrison, 283–306.

- Castelletti, Cristiano. 2022. "Virgil's sulcus primigenius of Augustan Rome." In Pimentel et al., 1: 301–28.
- Dainotti, Paolo. 2022. "L'allitterazione della solitudine in Virgilio." Annali dell'Università degli Studi di Napoli l'Orientale 44: 1–19.
- . 2024. "Virgil's Pathetic Technique." In Dainotti, Pinheiro Hasegawa, and Harrison, 107–30.
- Hardie, Philip R. 2024. "The Emotional Memories of Internal Narrators: Homer, Virgil, Ovid." In Memory and Emotions in Antiquity, edited by George Kazantzidis and Dimos Spatharas, 45–68. Trends in Classics 158. Berlin.
- Lasagna, Mauro. 2015. "Énée hospes de Didon: Parole, gestuelle, espace." Linguarum Varietas: An International Journal 10: 31–54.
- Luque Moreno, Jesús. 2021. "Dryades puellae." In Unceta Gómez and González Vázquez, 309–15.
- Panagl, Oswald. 2021. "Thematische Progression und thematischer Sprung: Aspekte narrativer Verfahren in Vergils Aeneis." In Unceta Gómez and González Vázquez, 675–92.
- Papaioannou, Sophia. 2022. "Temporality and Ekphrastic Narrative in the Aeneid." In Conceptions of Time in Greek and Roman Antiquity, edited by Richard Faure, Simon-Pierre Valli, and Arnaud Zucker, 119–39. Berlin.

Casali observes that the Latin poet most associated with the use of hysteron proteron is Vergil, who uses this figure in archaizing imitation of Homer's style. Castelletti discusses some possible boustrophedon acrostics in the Aeneid. Dainotti 2022 conducts a stylistic analysis of Vergilian passages, highlighting the significance of these passages' alliteration of the adjective solus with terms of similar meaning. Dainotti 2024 points to some of the textual strategies and stylistic features (including lexicon, word order, rhythm, and sound) adopted by Vergil to create pathos. Luque Moreno draws attention to the phrase Dryades puellae at Ecl. 5.58–59 and Georg. 1.7–15. The use of an adjective with the noun puella is unusual in Latin. Papaioannou examines ekphrases at Aen. 1.450–95, 6.20–35, and 8.625–728 that illustrate various experiments with narrative temporality.

VERGIL AND AUGUSTAN WRITERS

- Ciccarelli, Irma. 2020. "La rilettura dell'Eneide nella lezione di letteratura al princeps: Ov. Trist. 2, 529–538." Filologia Antica e Moderna 30 (49): 25–40.

- Coughlan, Taylor S. 2021. “Ubi suadebit placidos nox umida somnos (Ov. Fast. 2.635): Vergilian Sleep on a February Evening at the Caristia.” Mnemosyne: Bibliotheca Classica Batava 74: 1055–64.
- Gellar-Goad, T. H. M. 2023. “Sus and mus in Lucretius (De rerum natura 5.25), Vergil (Georgics 1.181), and Horace (Ars poetica 139).” Classical Philology 118: 536–42.
- Rampaounis, Paulos V. 2022. “Ἡ ἐλεγειακὴ ταυτότητα τῆς Διδῶς: Διάλογος τοῦ 4ου βιβλίου τῆς Aeneidos καὶ τῆς 7ης ἐπιστολῆς τῶν Heroidum.” In Asimakopoulou et al., 715–32.

Gellar-Goad considers the reception of Lucretius’s Arcadius sus in Vergil’s exiguus mus, echoed in Horace’s ridiculus mus: Lucretius’s sus deglamorizes the boarish labor of Hercules; Vergil’s mus playfully suggests that pest control is a Herculean task; while Horace’s mus folds the satiric epic pattern in on itself, by using it to satirize epic.

ANCIENT AUTHORS AFTER VERGIL

- Cesila, Robson Tadeu. 2022. “‘Desacralization’ and the Lowering of Vergilian Epic in Three Epigrams of Martial.” In Pimentel et al., 1: 347–60.
- Cowan, Robert. 2023. “Fractured Echoes: Seneca’s Virgilian Half-Lines.” Museum Helveticum 80: 63–82.
- D’Urso, Teresa. 2023. “Una definizione problematica: Lucano come ‘anti-Virgilio.’” Bollettino di Studi Latini: Periodico Semestrale d’Informazione Bibliografica 53: 24–42.
- Dilbeck, Thomas W. 2021. “Prepositional Metaphysics and Vergil in Jerome’s Exegesis of Ephesians 4:6.” Studia Patristica 128: 223–30.
- Fassina, Alessia. 2010. “Il ritorno alla fama prior: Didone nel centone Alceste (Anth. Lat. 15 R.²).” In Gioseffi, 91–103.
- Fratantuono, Lee. 2023. “Colluthus’ Helen and the Virgilian Gates of Sleep.” Museum Helveticum 80: 249–61.
- Guida, Augusto. 2020. “Virgilio senza medici.” In E me l’ovrare appaga: Papiri e saggi in onore di Gabriella Messeri (P. Messeri), edited by Guido Bastianini, Francesca Maltomini, Daniela Manetti, Diletta Minutoli, and Rosario Pinaudi, 345–49. Florence.
- Janzen, Darrel. 2023. “Two Allusions in Lucan’s Bellum civile to the Proem and Conclusion of Vergil’s Aeneid (BC 3.133–134 ~ Aen. 12.945–947 and BC 7.847–850 ~ Aen. 1.8–11).” Vergilius 69: 79–106.
- Kearey, Talitha. 2022. “Author as Audience: Staging Virgil in Tacitus’s Dialogus de oratoribus.” In Tischer, Gärtner, and Forst, 283–318.

- Kliszcz, Aneta. 2017. "Glades of Dread: The Ecology and Aesthetics of loca horrida." In Schliephake, 45–60.
- McGill, Scott. 2023. "Vergil's Children: Patterns in Christian Centos and Responses to Vergil's Fourth Eclogue." In A Late Antique Poetics? The Jeweled Style Revisited, edited by Joshua Hartman and Helen Kaufmann, 201–14. Sera Tela. Studies in Late Antique Literature and Its Reception. London.
- Pagliaro, Simone S. 2017. "Su due reminiscenze virgiliane nell'epitalamio di Venanzio Fortunato (carm. 6, 1)." Filologia Antica e Moderna 27 (44): 113–28.
- Parkhouse, James. 2023. "Pseudo-Sacrificial Allusions in Hosidius Geta's Medea." Classical Quarterly 73: 862–71.
- Ruta, Alessio. 2023. "Forme e funzioni delle citazioni virgiliane nell'epistolario di Simmaco." Museum Helveticum 80: 306–17.
- Sisul, Ana Clara, and Juan Manuel Danza. 2022. "La apertura del código épico en Virgilio y en Prudencio: Modelos heroicos femeninos; de la amazona Camila a la mártir Eulalia." L'Antiquité Classique 91: 59–75.
- Smith, Robert Scott. 2022. "The Myth of the 'Mythographus Vergilianus.'" In Myths on the Margins of Homer: Prolegomena to the "Mythographus Homericus," edited by Joan Pagès and Nereida Villagra, 157–94. Trends in Classics. Supplementary Volumes 124. Berlin.

Cowan points out that Seneca's tragedies include four instances of incomplete trimeters (Phaed. 605, Phoen. 319, Thy. 100, Tro. 1103), which constitute allusions to incomplete hexameter lines in Vergil. Dilbeck observes that Jerome supports his metaphysical Stoic interpretation of prepositions in his exegesis of Eph. 4.6 by quoting Aen. 6.724–27 and alluding to Georg. 4.221–22. Guida offers a new interpretation of the text of PHerc. Paris 2, in a passage containing the first mention of Vergil's name in a papyrus. Kearey suggests that Tacitus's allusion at Dial. 13.1–2 to Vergil plays a game both of self-representation and of the absence of the author. Kliszcz discusses the popularity of the literary motif of the locus horridus, for which the Aeneid provides the paradigm, in Neronian and Flavian literature. Parkhouse explores the allusive strategy of Hosidius Geta's Medea, a Vergilian cento. In his book Greek Mythography in the Roman World (Oxford, 2004), Alan Cameron devoted a chapter to the possibility of a "Mythographus Vergilianus." Smith argues against this possibility, observing that the mythographic material found in the ancient Vergilian commentaries comes from various sources, each with different exegetical objectives.

VERGIL AND EARLIER WRITERS

- Battezzato, Luigi. 2022. "Euripides' Hecuba and the Iliad: Ancient Commentaries, Virgil, and Ovid." Quaderni Urbinati di Cultura Classica 130: 117–34.
- Blanco Mas, Jorge. 2022. "Los mitos de Eneas y Diomedes y su devenir literario, histórico y político en Roma." In Literatura e Historia en el Mundo Clásico, edited by María Paz de Hoz and Antonio López Fonseca, 321–30. Estudios Clásicos. Investigación 1. Madrid.
- Casali, Sergio. 2023. "Lucretian Dido: A Stichometric Allusion." Classical Quarterly 73: 472–75.
- Celotto, Giulio. 2023. "Not Only Ariadne: The Influence of Catullus 11 on Aeneid 4." Vergilius 69: 59–77.
- Coughlan, Taylor S. 2023. "Meleager and Catullus at Vergil Eclogue 1.55." Classical Philology 118: 527–35.
- Fernandelli, Marco. 2023. "Sulla scrittura del mito in Catullo e Virgilio." In Écritures des savoirs dans l'antiquité aux premiers siècles de notre ère, edited by Valérie Naas and Marie-Pierre Noël, 239–76. Rencontres 593. Paris.
- Fratantuono, Lee. 2022a. "Homer's Nausicaä and Virgil's Dido or The Intertextuality of Hunting and Ship-Burning." Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 12–27.
- . 2022b. "Pindar's Achilles and Virgil's Camilla: The Influence of Nemean 3 on Aeneid 11." Mediterranean Chronicle: A Journal on Culture/s in the Mediterranean World 12: 49–62.
- . 2023a. "Lycia and the Lycians in the Aeneid: Virgil's Herodotus." Florentia Iliberritana: Revista de Estudios de Antigüedad Clásica 34: 123–43.
- . 2023b. "Real Tears and Empty Pictures: Matter, Void, and a Lucretian Reading of Aeneid 1.159–465." L'Antiquité Classique 92: 145–61.
- Gagliardi, Paola. 2019. "Καλόν e αἰσχρόν in Teocrito e in Virgilio." Quaderni Urbinati di Cultura Classica 121: 101–17.
- Hall, Louis Remy Inglis. 2023. "Replacing Romulus: Distance from and Dependence on Livy in Virgil's Aeneas." Vergilius 69: 37–58.
- Kronenberg, Leah. 2024. "Idle Hands: The Poetics of Masturbation in the Winter Scenes of Hesiod (Op. 493–563) and Vergil (G. 1.291–310)." In Gellar-Goad and Polt, 71–105.
- Madson, Luke N. 2023. "Gylippus in Virgil, Aeneid 12 and Literary Laconians." Classical Quarterly 73: 742–48.
- Metcalf, Christopher. 2023. "Sappho, Fr. 44.12 Voigt and Virgil, Aeneid 4.173." Classical Quarterly 73: 476–77.

- Muse, Kevin. 2023. “Varium et mutabile semper femina: Divine Warnings and Hasty Departures in Odyssey 15 and Aeneid 4.” Classical Quarterly 73: 231–42.
- Schmude, Michael P. 2021. “Flucht und Migration in Vergils Aeneis und Homers Odyssee.” Lingue Antiche e Moderne 10: 19–39.
- Silva, Rafael Guimarães Tavares da. 2023. “Entre Éros e Amor: Jogos intertextuais de Teócrito (Idílios 11) e Virgílio (Bucólicas 2).” Classica: Revista Brasileira de Estudos Clássicos 36: n.p.
- Sullivan, Michael B. 2012. “Virgil’s Erato and the Fate of Aeneas.” In Bers et al., n.p.
- Vespoli, Lorenzo. 2022. “The Departure of Aeneas from Carthage in Virgil’s Aeneid and the Apollonian Model (I 519–546 ; IV 183–211).” Itineraria: Letteratura di Viaggio e Conoscenza del Mondo dall’Antichità al Rinascimento 21: 1–20.

Madson argues that the narrative of Gylippus at Aen. 12.271–83 is an epitaphic gesture alluding to Nicander of Colophon, AP 7.435 and other Hellenistic epigrams. Sullivan observes that Aen. 7.37–45 engages with Apollonius Rhodius 3.3–4: σὺ γὰρ καὶ Κύπριδος αἴσῃαν / ἔμπορες. This link makes Erato a uniquely appropriate patroness for the horrida bella that ensue in Latium.

ANCIENT COMMENTARIES, SCHOLIA, VITAE

- Baudou, Alban, and Séverine Clément-Tarantino. 2023. À l’école de Virgile. 2, Commentaire à l’Énéide, livre 2. Mythographes. Villeneuve d’Ascq.
- Boikou, Angeliki. 2023. “Venerem igitur alium adorans: Pour un fragment de Laevius chez Macrobe (Sat. III, 8, 1–3).” Latomus: Revue d’Études Latines 82: 467–84.
- Cadili, Luca. 2022. “The Scholia Bernensia B and Fronto: ΣΒΒ in Verg. Georg. 4.283.” Lexis: Poetica, Retorica e Comunicazione nella Tradizione Classica 40: 565–73.
- Canetta, Isabella. 2019. “Butroto e la nuova Troia: Un’idea virgiliana? L’annotazione di Servio Danielino a Aen. 3, 349.” Pan: Rivista di Filologia Latina 8: 117–21.
- Danovi, Vittorio Remo. 2023. “Evangelo Vergiliomastix: Appunti su tre critiche a Virgilio nel primo libro dei Saturnalia.” L’Antiquité Classique 92: 163–72.
- Foster, Frances. 2023. “Alii dicunt ...: Servius and Virgil’s Anonymised Readers.” In Tischer, Kuhn-Treichel, and Poletti, 311–38.

- Lentano, Mario. 2022. “L’onestà contesa: Una nota esegetica alla biografia virgiliana di Foca.” Maia: Rivista di Letterature Classiche 74: 154–62.
- Muniz, Liebert de Abreu. 2022. “Retórica, uitae e recepção: Os genera dicendi na recepção virgiliana e seu eco nas antigas uitae.” Rónai: Revista de Estudos Clássicos e Tradutórios Ed. Especial: 39–59.
- Poletti, Stefano. 2023. “Eine Frage der Perspektive: Servius und Servius auctus über Vergils subjektiven Stil.” In Tischer, Kuhn-Treichel, and Poletti, 223–60.
- Scappaticcio, Maria Chiara. 2020. “Virgilianisti antichi, e anonimi: Su un commento e un argumentum alle Georgiche dall’Antinoupolis della Tarda Antichità (Schol. Verg. frg. georg. 3 e Anon. argum. georg. 3 – P. Ant. I 29).” Invigilata Lucernis 42: 357–68.
- Stok, Fabio. 2016. “Servio, l’epica e la storia.” Rationes Rerum: Rivista di Filologia e Storia 8: 99–117.
- . 2022. “Virgil the Wise: Genesis of a Myth.” In Tischer, Gärtner, and Forst, 319–40.
- . 2023. “Il greco in Servio e altri commentatori.” In La lingua greca nella tradizione grammaticale latina: Atti della XIII Giornata Ghisleriana di filologia classica, edited by Fabio Gasti and Andrea Pizzotti, 43–59. Echo 41. Foggia.
- Tischer, Ute. 2022. “Servius velut latenti similis: Das Autorbild des Vergilkommentators Servius.” In Tischer, Gärtner, and Forst, 155–84.
- Vallat, Daniel. 2021. “Servius, Sarpedon et l’accent grec: Un discours grammatical en quête de cohérence.” In Unceta Gómez and González Vázquez, 75–88.
- , and Michèle Béjouis-Vallat. 2023. Servius, Commentaire sur l’Énéide de Virgile. Livre I. Donat, Vie de Virgile; Introduction aux Bucoliques. Collection des Universités de France. Série Latine 439. Paris.
- Vlachos, Evangelos. 2022. “Ποίηση και ποιητική στο ψευδο-βεργιλιανό ille ego qui quondam.” In Asimakopoulos et al., 733–51.

Baudou and Clément-Tarantino offer a Latin text of Servius’s commentary on Aen. 2, with a French translation on opposite pages and with critical matter in French. At Sat. 3.8.1–3 Macrobius quotes Laevius, fr. 26 Blänsdorf, in his exegesis of Aen. 2.632. Boikou observes that this fragment must be read in conjunction with his quotation of Philochorus (fr. 184 Jacoby) immediately afterwards, a coincidence which demonstrates that Macrobius shares a common source with Servius and with the scholiast of the Scholia Danielis, probably Donatus’s lost commentary on Vergil. Cadili suggests that the claim made in Scholia Bernensia B that Vergil’s source for the Aristaeus episode in Georg. 4 was a poet “Fronto” could either be a scribal error for the poet Euphron of Chalcis or an interpolation derived from an interlinear gloss. Danovi writes that, of the company assembled in Macrobius's Saturnalia, Euangelus is the only detractor of Vergil. Three of his remarks (1.24.2–4, 6–7, and 9) illustrate criticisms that Macrobius knew had been formulated against Vergil by his earliest commentators. In Phocas, Carm. de Verg. 36, Lentano argues that the word probitas refers to a characteristic of Vergil's mother. Muniz observes that the Lives of Vergil are a valuable source for tracing the development of his rhetoric and literary reception. Seneca, Epist. 86, first proposed a rhetorical interpretation; Servius extended Seneca's synthesis by applying the notion of model; and the ancient and medieval Lives, including the fourth-century Life by Donatus, the fifth-century Life attributed to Philargyrius, and the ninth-century Vita Vossiana and Vita Noricensis, consolidated the tradition. A fourth-century AD fragment of papyrus codex from Antinoöpolis preserves the earliest direct testimony of a commentary on the Georgics, which Scappaticcio compares with Servius's commentary. Stok 2016 notes a contradiction in Servius: while in his preface to the Aeneid Servius accepts the traditional definition of epic as an account of history and myth, in his commentary he argues instead that Vergil used history in an allusive way, poetically mixing fact and fiction. Stok 2022 traces the development of the myth of Vergil's omniscience from the first through fifth centuries, which originated in Neoplatonic commentaries and was perpetuated in Macrobius and Servius. Vallat and Béjouis-Vallat offer a Latin text and facing French translation, with an introduction in French.

MANUSCRIPTS; TEXTUAL TRADITION

- Cadili, Luca. 2022. "Sous le charme de l'écriture: Les Scholia Turonensia et le scriptorium de Corbie." Revue d'Histoire des Textes 17: 311–40.
- Mayer, Marc. 2023. "La edición bodoniana de Virgilio: Notas críticas sobre algunas particularidades de su texto." Anuari de Filologia. Antiqua et Mediaevalia 13: 1–18.
- Nathan, Jonathan. 2023. "Transposition at Virgil, Aeneid 8.612–13." Classical Quarterly 73: 937–40.
- Smith, Alden. 2021. "Dido's Already Enflamed Love: The Manuscripts and the Servian Tradition ad Aen. 4, 54." Quaderni Urbinati di Cultura Classica 127: 185–91.
- Stok, Fabio. 2023. "Gli scolii del Virgilio Mediceo." In Sagaci corde: Studi di filologia classica per Rosa Maria D'Angelo e Antonino Maria Milazzo, edited by Orazio Portuese, 137–45. Temi e Testi 230. Rome.

Zurli, Lorian. 2023. “Come va emendato Verg. Georg. 1, 513?” Bollettino di Studi Latini: Periodico Semestrale d’Informazione Bibliografica 53: 107–9.

Cadili discusses the abundant scholia in the Carolingian manuscript Bern, Burgerbibliothek 165, intended to complete Servius’s commentary. In the scholia to the Eclogues and Georgics we can recognize four scholiasts from the Abbey of Tours, one of whom bases his scholia not on the Seruius uulgatus, but on a manuscript of Corbie written in the second half of the ninth century AD, whose text is linked to the tradition of the Seruius auctus. Mayer discusses the 1793 edition of Vergil’s works published by the Italian printer Gian Battista Bodoni in Parma, with attention to the genesis and publication of this work and its relationship to intellectuals of Age of Enlightenment. These include the Spanish diplomat José Nicolás de Azara (1730–1804), the Spanish music historian Esteban de Arteaga (1747–99), the Italian antiquarian Ennio Quirino Visconti (1751–1818), and the Italian antiquarian Carlo Fea (1753–1836). Nathan argues that the words promissa and perfecta at Aen. 8.612 were transposed at an early stage in the transmission. Smith rejects impensio, the apparent lectio difficilior at Aen. 4.54, which is accepted in modern critical editions along with flammauit in the same line, in favor of incensum ... inflammauit. Stok discusses the marginal notes in the late fifth-century manuscript Florence, Biblioteca Medicea Laurenziana, Plut. 39.1, published in the fifteenth century by Pomponius Leto (c. 1428–98), and compares them with Servius’s and other grammarians’ remarks. Zurli emends addunt in spatia at Georg. 1.513 to corripiunt spatia.

THE MIDDLE AGES

- Dugaz, Lucien. 2024. “Le saule et la saulcille: L’Enéide d’Octovien de Saint-Gelais entre manuscrit charentais et editio princeps parisienne (1500–1510).” Études Diachroniques 2: 87–112.
- Lentano, Mario. 2021. “Lucretio fratri suo poetae claro: Appunti su una variante medievale della biografia virgiliana.” Filologia Antica e Moderna 31 (51): 217–38.
- Mangini, Miguel Ângelo Andriolo. 2023. “Sobre a rota Vergilii.” Ágora: Estudos Clássicos em Debate 25: 219–38.
- Müller, Felix Florian. 2023. Transformierte Intimitäten: Liebe und Freundschaft in mittelalterlichen und frühneuzeitlichen Übertragungen der Aeneis. Transformationen der Antike 67. Berlin.

- Poppe, Erich. 2023. “Imtheachta Aeniasa’s lúireacha Re-visited.” Ériu 73: 89–96.
- Schanze, Christoph. 2022. “Wigalois liest Eneas.” Archiv für das Studium der neueren Sprachen und Literaturen 259.174:2: 253–63.
- Weigand, Rudol Kilian. 2023. “Vergil: Von der Antike in die spätmittelalterliche Volkssprache.” In Römische Rezeptionen der Kaiserzeit und Spätantike: Festschrift für Bardo M. Gauly, edited by Gregor Bitto, Anna Ginestí Rosell, and Jonas Ludäscher, 691–712. Beiträge zur Altertumskunde 412. Berlin.

Dugaz writes about the publication history of the French translation of the Aeneid made by Octovien de Saint-Gelais (1468–1502). Lentano observes that some medieval Vergilian Lives written in the seventh through tenth centuries include the claim that Lucretius was Vergil’s maternal uncle, a detail that perhaps reflects an ancient Celtic social tradition. Mangini offers an assessment and interpretation of the medieval rota Vergilii or rota Vergiliana, the arrangement of Vergil’s works and styles into a circular diagram, with a focus on the discussion by the grammarian Iohannes de Garlandia (c. 1195–1272) and his Parisiana poetria de arte prosaica, metrica et rhythmica. Poppe discusses the phrase lúirech (threbraid) thrédúalach, which is based on Vergil’s lorica trilix, in the medieval Irish adaptation of the Aeneid. Schanze examines the meaning of a scene in the Middle High German epic Wigalois, written by the Bavarian poet Wirnt von Grafenberg between 1202 and 1205, in which the Dido episode of the Aeneid is read aloud to the protagonists.

RENAISSANCE AND TUDOR WRITERS

- Deloince-Louette, Christiane. 2021. “Le parallèle Homère-Virgile à l’âge classique: Un outil critique.” Exercices de Rhétorique 16: n.p.
- Feile Tomas, Maya. 2023. “Carthaginian America: Classical Encounters in Early Ibero-American Epic.” International Journal of the Classical Tradition 30: 66–104.
- Kopff, E. Christian. 2023. “What Virgil Taught Martin Luther about Poetry and Music.” In Athens and Wittenberg: Poetry, Philosophy, and Luther’s Legacy, edited by James A. Kellerman, R. Alden Smith, Carl P. E. Springer, and E. J. Hutchinson, 107–13. Studies in Medieval and Reformation Traditions 234. Leiden.

Deloince-Louette discusses the Comparaison des poèmes d’Homère et de Virgile by the French poet René Rapin (1620–87). Feile Tomas examines the symbolism of Carthage, a new space to which one did not expect to come, in Hispano-American epic poetry composed across the continent from Chile to Brazil by the 1550s.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY

Grotto, Francesco. 2023. “Una favola epica: Fedro 1, 30 e Virgilio.” Museum Helveticum 80: 262–78.

Grotto studies the appropriation of Georg. 3.209–41 and Aen. 12.715–23 by Phaedrus (1.30) and the modern reception of Phaedrus’s fable by the poet Jean de La Fontaine (1621–95).

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

Matović, Petra. 2023. “Virgilian Elements in José Rodrigues de Melo’s De rusticis Brasiliae rebus (1781).” International Journal of the Classical Tradition 30: 381–94.

Midford, Sarah. 2023. “Trojans in the Antipodes: The Fabrication of Epic Ancestry and Imperial Destiny in Colonial Australian Literature.” International Journal of the Classical Tradition 30: 105–30.

Matović analyzes the four-book didactic poem De rusticis Brasiliae rebus by the Portuguese humanist José Rodrigues de Melo (1723–89) to highlight aspects of Vergil’s influence. Midford writes about the poetic work of Michael Massey Robinson (1744–1826), a freed British convict transported to Australia after being convicted of blackmail, who was employed by the New South Wales governor to write poetry for the British king. Drawing on the British legend of Brutus of Troy (son of Siluius, Ascanius’s son, and therefore great-grandson of Aeneas) recorded by the twelfth-century cleric Geoffrey of Monmouth in his Historia regum Britanniae, Robinson casts the British descendants of Aeneas as the founders of Australia and heirs to the Trojan people.

TWENTIETH CENTURY

García Jurado, Francisco. 2021. “Claves y documentos para un Virgilio posmoderno: Los años ochenta del siglo XX en España.” Nova Tellus: Anuario del Centro de Estudios Clásicos 39: 171–203.

García Jurado considers the various ways in which the decade of the 1980s shaped a particular image of Vergil.

VERGIL AND THE ARTS

- Dimundo, Rosalba. 2022. “I tormenti d’amore di una regina, da Virgilio all’opera musicale barocca.” In Pimentel et al., 2: 607–26.
- Ziolkowski, Jan M. 2022. “Virgil and Music in the Carolingian World.” In Music in the Carolingian World: Witnesses to a Metadiscipline; Essays in Honor of Charles M. Atkinson, edited by Graeme Boone, 21–35. Epitome Musical. Turnhout.

Duke University